"JOY RIDER" COMES TO GRIEF

Harry J. Rand Under Arrest For the Larceny of His Employer's Touring Car.

Another "joy ride" which turned out to be just the opposite, was what Harry J. Rand of Manchester took Monday evening, when he appropriated the seven passenger touring car of his employer, William Hurd of the same city. Rand thought he would like to take a ride, and so took the machine and started for Portsmouth, but on the road he had his troubles, and when he reached this city, one spring was broken and the bearings were burned out. Rand took the car to a local garage for repairs.

This morning the local police received a telephone message from the Manchester officials that Rand was wanted on the charge of larceny of the car. Deputy Sheriff Wilbur B. Shaw found the man on the street near the garage, and promptly arrested him. Rand is being held at the local police station, awaiting the coming of an officer from Manchester who will take him back to that city.

"THE WORLD PROBLEM OF THE COLOR LINE"

Dr. W. E. B. DuBois, Harvard graduate and probably the foremost scholar of his race, will lecture on this above subject at Association hall, Wednesday, Nov. 18th, at 4 p. m., under the auspices of the Grafton Club. Dr. DuBois and Booker T. Washington represent different types of character, and have entirely different methods for the solution of the race problem. Don't miss his address on this interesting subject. Admission 35c.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 17.—General Carranza has made known to Provisional President Gutierrez the condition under which he will retire, and the latter has approved them, according to a dispatch just received at the State Department from Consul Silliman.

Speedy German Cruiser Said to Be Trying to Escape From the North Sea

U. S. S. Tennessee Arrives at Vurla, Asia Minor, and Will Protect Subjects of Allied Powers.

(Special to The Herald)
London, Nov. 17.—A report was current in maritime circles today to the effect that a speedy German cruiser is to try to break the British blockade, escape from the North Sea and join the commerce raiders in outside waters. This was based on a dispatch from Christianna that the German auxiliary cruiser Berlin had been seen off Trondhjen, Norway.

UNITED STATES SHIP IN WAR ZONE
(Special to The Herald)
Athens, Nov. 17.—The American cruiser Tennessee has arrived at the port of Vurla, Asia Minor. Her arrival is expected to lessen the persecution directed against the subjects of the Allied Powers.

AUSTRIANS CLAIM VICTORIES
(Special to The Herald)
Vienna, via Amsterdam, Nov. 17.—The Austrian war office today announced the capture of Valjevo and Obrenovac, two important Serbian towns. The following statement was issued: "In the southern war theatre our victorious troops drove the enemy from their trenches in front of Valjevo and occupied the town. The enemy was then driven back after some heavy fighting. Our army then advanced along the Koulbara river and occupied Valjevo and Obrenovac."

LAND AND NAVAL FORCES CO-OPERATING
(Special to The Herald)
Petrograd, Nov. 17.—Russian warships are co-operating with the land forces in resisting the advance of the Turkish army along the coast of the Black sea, according to an official statement made by the Admiralty today. The warships have shelled the Turks and caused heavy losses.

CITY OF CRACOW IS INVESTED
(Special to The Herald)
London, Nov. 17.—A Venice dispatch to the Morning Post says: "The fall of Cracow is expected at any moment. The city is invested on the north and parts are afire. The inhabitants are fleeing." For the Russians, the fall of the city means the key to the industries of Silesia, striking a vital economic blow at Germany.

GREAT BRITAIN TAKES DRASTIC STEP
(Special to The Herald)
London, Nov. 17.—A sensation was caused here this afternoon by an announcement made by Premier Asquith in the House of Commons that the government had decided to declare all of the North Sea a military area.

This will be a severe blow to neutral countries like Denmark and Holland which get their imports on ships that are compelled to traverse the North Sea, but the British government decided that such action was necessary to prevent Germany also from getting supplies.

Some protest has been received from neutral countries against such action being taken, but these were ignored in taking the step.

It is feared that this act may have a bad effect in Holland whose friendship for Germany has been suspected for some time.

If the shutting off of her commerce resulted in her joining Germany no one would be greatly surprised.

ARTILLERY DUEL INCREASING IN FURY
(Special to The Herald)
Paris, Nov. 17.—The great artillery duel between the Germans and the allies along the front in Belgium, from the coast to Ypres, is increasing in violence, according to an official statement issued here this afternoon.

It says that the Germans have been forced to abandon part of their trenches because of the flood in that region, and that two German attacks have been repulsed. The allies have made marked progress between Bixschoute and the Yser canal, and between Armentieres and La Bassée.

GIRL KILLED AT CAMBRIDGE

Driver of Auto Was Trying to Avoid Striking a Colored Boy.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 17.—One child killed and another seriously hurt when an automobile owned and operated by Elmer Butler, tried to avoid striking a colored boy, and crashed into a hydrant hitting two girls on the sidewalk. The dead girl is Anna Conroy, eleven years old.

General Charles J. Hamblett of Nashua, entertained a party of friends at his cottage at Rye Beach Sunday. They came down in the morning in two autos returning in the evening. Among the guests it is understood were U. S. Senator Giffinger.

PAY OFFICE TRANSFERRED

From New Bank Building to the Navy Yard After Being in This City 12 Years.

The navy pay office which has been in this city since 1902 has been transferred to the navy yard, and the large auto truck at the yard was engaged today to move the furniture, etc. from the New Hampshire bank building to the General Administration building, No. 13 at the yard, where new quarters are being fitted up.

The navy pay office was first located in this city in the Federal building on Pleasant street, from there it was transferred to the Franklin block, and then about a year ago to the New Hampshire bank building on Pleasant street.

RESERVE BANKS OPEN, PLAN TO BROADEN FIELD

Report of First Day's Business
Expected to Reach the Board Today.

Washington, Nov. 16.—Although the twelve Federal Reserve banks only began business today the Federal Reserve board already has before it plans for widening their field of operations and increasing their store of cash.

Telegrams began to reach the treasury department shortly after Secretary McAdoo issued his formal announcement to the banks to open their doors. They continued to arrive all day long. Governors and federal reserve agents of all the banks telegraphing their congratulations and their promises of co-operation in making the system a success. No definite data of the business done was available last evening, but Secretary Wells telegraphed each bank for an account of its performance for the day and expected to be able to lay a report before the board tomorrow.

The board may not be willing to draw any definite plans from one day's business, but the first week may have a material effect and may result in increasing the cash of the banks by more than $100,000,000. The board has not yet considered the deposit of a large part of the large cash now in the treasury of the transfer of most of the government funds now deposited in national banks. Secretary McAdoo has power to make these changes.

If the first week shows that the banks can use more cash, however, the board will probably suggest the adoption of the plan. It has been reported to the board that there is about $110,000,000 in the treasury available for this purpose and that about $84,000,000 of the $100,000,000 now in banks on deposit for the government could be transferred.

The postoffice department has sent to all postmasters that no postal savings should be deposited in banks which are not members of the federal reserve system and instructing them to discontinue deposits in such non-member banks at once.

DAILY SPORT LETTER

New York, Nov. 17.—The fight promoters ought to get together for the purpose of thwarting the fighters in their efforts to get about 90 per cent of the money that is taken in at the box office.

Promoting prize fighters in this thriving metropolis and in other cities is just as profitable as raising chickens in one's back yard, since the fighters started demanding guarantees.

In the olden days the promoters pulled down a fairly sizeable wind for their trouble in staging a bout. But times have changed. The fighters want all the money that is taken in at the box office. After the fighters get their guarantee it leaves the promoters just about enough to go out and buy themselves a couple of packages of chewing gum. In some instances the promoters suffered a financial loss.

This condition will continue just so long as the promoters permit the fighters to dictate their own exorbitant terms.

The Only Sure Ender of All Corns

ie. Quit punishing your feet by using the eating salves and ointments. Use knives, files, scissors and razors; slicing and hacking at a corn only make it grow faster and bigger. It also brings danger of bleeding and frost bitten. The new way, the new principle never known before in corn therapy, is "GETS-IT." It's a kind of drop on a corn does the work. Pain goes, the corn begins to shrivel and fall off. You apply it in two seconds. Nothing to stick, nothing to hurt, and it never fails. Try "GETS-IT" tonight on corns, calluses, warts or bunions.

not terms. The longer this condition exists the worse it will be for the fight game, for with the fighters continually increasing their demands it means that the promoters must boost the admission prices to meet the increasing guarantees of fighters. They will hurt the attendance.

There is just one way for the promoters to beat the money-hungry fighters and that is for the promoters to get together and agree to fix a certain scale for fighters—and stick to that scale.

The promoters to enable themselves to "get out from under" in all boxing bouts without suffering a loss should force the fighters to fight for a certain percentage of the gross receipts. The business of guaranteeing the fight for a fixed sum isn't fair to the promoter. It's a gamble with him. He may clear something on the bout but if the weather is bad or something else turns up to decrease the attendance, he not only doesn't get dollars for his time and labor but he loses money on the venture.

However, the fighters will continue to get the bulk of the gate receipts as long as the different fight promoters continue to compete with each other and try to outbid each other to get the star bouts. Fighters will play both ends against the middle in trying to shake down the promoters for the largest sum possible, and the best the promoters will get is the worst of it.

Billy Gibson connected for a good many years with the fight game. In New York quit a short time ago, Gibson was regarded as the most successful fight promoter in the East, and also the shrewdest. Yet Gibson quit the game in disgust and gave out figures to show that the fighters still get nearly all the money taken in at the gate and that the promoters get little and sometimes nothing for their efforts.

"Conditions are bad now but they will get worse," said Gibson.

"Those fighters each day are yelling for bigger guarantees or bigger percentages."

Gibson staged the Willie Ritchie-Leach cross fight in New York last winter. The house was packed. The fight drew nearly $22,000. Everybody figured that this would mean a harvest for the promoters. When the fighters were paid, when the other bills were paid and when the State Boxing Commission got its share, there was just about $1500 left to be split among the members of the promoting club. And this $1500 was their gross ally. The club that Gibson was managing had spent hundreds of dollars to land that fight.

A new crowd of promoters headed by James J. Johnson is conducting fights in Madison Square Garden now. When they entered the field they figured that they could make money. They had the idea that bulky profits could be made if the thing is run right. They thought other promoters had failed to grab large profits because they didn't manage things as they should be managed.

Johnson staged the Freddy Welsh-Ad Wolgast fight here. It was expected that the house would be about $20,000. Instead it was slightly over $12,000. The state's share was nearly $700. The rest of printing, hall hire, police hire, water hire, publicity, advertising, electric lights and other incidentals was nearly $2500 according to the best figure obtainable. Johnson put on some first class preliminaries. He had to pay about $400 for them. Welsh got $4573 for his share of the receipts and about $400 in addition for railroad fare and training expenses. Wolgast got $3266 for his 23 or 24 minutes of work, and also got about $200 to $300 for extra expenses.

Flare all these items up and you will find that Johnson and his associates, who worked night and day to get the bout and who worked about hours a day after they got the bout so as to make its staging as perfect as possible, got just about net profit for their efforts to enable them to get out and buy themselves two or three soda waters and a nice new 50 cent necktie.

THE TROUBLES OF THE PICTURE MAN.

Flushing, Nov. 16.—The old adage has it that every picture tells a story but recent experiences have taught me that this does not necessarily mean the whole story. I have just made a tour of Holland in quest of pictures for the Hearst-Selig News Pictorial and my experiences there have convinced me that it is easier to get pictures in a country where war is being waged than in a state, whose neutrality renders the surveillance of the movements of strangers infinitely more stringent than any to which I have been subjected in Belgium or France.

With Belgium in the hands of the Germans I turned to Holland in the hope of finding a fruitful field of operations. The kindly Dutch are showing extraordinary and practical sympathy with the poor Belgian refugees but the Dutch authorities are taking no risks of being guilty of any breach of neutrality and, in passing, I would tell you that the Dutch people, as a whole, are all on the side of the Allies. More than one million Belgians, all destitute and homeless, have sought safety in Holland and it is hardly possible to tell in words the strain this has put upon the resources of this little country.

In Flushing it was impossible to get sleeping accommodation and a mattress in an attic was all I could find on my arrival there. Ordinary white bread is not to be found in the country and the supply of black bread is limited. I left Flushing the day after my arrival and travelled by train to Alkmaar where the German prisoners are interned. Alkmaar is situated on the western coast of Holland farthest from the German frontier. There are some hundreds of Germans in the compounds here and I was greatly impressed by their general cheerfulness, even when the weather was vile enough to sadden the most cheery optimist.

Evidently being interned in a Dutch compound is not at all a disagreeable experience. Each day squads of these prisoners are taken in parties of about fifty for long walks in charge of two Dutch guards. The men are more or less placed on parole and they make no effort to escape for they are as far away from the German border as the Dutch authorities can put them. At this time of the year Holland is a dismal country for the "seafarer" from the North Sea and the Zuyder Zee covers the country with a haze which casts a sort of pall of depression all over the place. And by the way, this haze is not beloved of the photographer. No permits are given by the Dutch authorities for the taking of photographs, but the officers are sometimes subject to an attack of temporary blindness.

I left Alkmaar for Enkhuizen and crossed the Zuyder Zee in a fishing smack to Strayvoeren, a journey which took three hours and was made in a dreary rain. Thence I proceeded to Leeuwarder, where it was with difficulty that I convinced the hotel proprietor that I was not a spy. An early start next morning brought me to Groningen, on the German border where the English prisoners are located. My entry into this town was soon noted by the authorities and a gendarme mounted on a bicycle was told off to watch my movements. I entered a cafe overlooking the barracks in which the British prisoners are housed and my sleuth-hound kept watch and ward at the door. How to get a picture was my chief thought and while the gendarme kicked his heels in the street I perched my camera on the ledge of an upper window and got the Britishers marching in the barrack square.

Leaving the cafe I went to the barracks, the gendarme following at a respectful distance. The officer refused to allow me to take pictures of the men, but they were anxious that I should not be sent away empty handed. Placing my camera on the ground and tilting it with a stone beneath the front end, I sat upon the machine and while ostensibly chatting to some of the soldiers I was turning the handle and taking a picture of the squad of sailors up and down the barrack yard as they do for exercise for two hours each day. This is the only recreation which the Britishers get. They are not allowed outside the confines of the barracks for they have refused to give their word of honor not to escape if the opportunity presents itself. Indeed, several of them, aided by friends outside, have succeeded in getting free.

The fact that I was taking a picture of the men at exercise was hidden from the officer-in-charge by the fact that the men gathered round me and screened my action, but it did not escape the attention of the gendarme and his intervention resulted in a request that I should leave the barrack yard without delay. I was politely told that the use of my camera was forbidden and a not very appealing picture of a soldier in a Dutch jail was verbally painted for my benefit. Still being under police supervision, Groningen ceased to appeal to me and under police escort I went to the railroad depot and took a train for Flushing. A camera in Holland is an object of suspicion and, while not openly antagonistic, the authorities are determined to take no chances of allowing anything to happen which may reflect unfavorably upon their neutral status.

BOSTON LETTER

Boston, Nov. 17.—This week the new Boston and Maine trustees will make a careful inspection trip over the Hampden railroad. There is good reason to believe that in the not distant future the Boston and Maine will take over the Hampden, though it may run initially under an operating agreement. Whatever the particular plan adopted, it is understood that the Boston and Maine will shoulder the Hampden and that as a result the $4,000,000 litigation in the Massachusetts superior court will end.

Boston, Nov. 17.—Chairman Edward A. Thurston of the Republican State Committee has sent out to every Republican member elect of the 1915 legislature, a letter of congratulation, and appeals for a legislative record on which the party can go successfully to the voters in 1916. He says: "It is very gratifying to know that the people of Massachusetts have again shown such faith in our party that they have elected a legislature strongly Republican. This makes our party strongly responsible for the legislation that is to be passed next year. We will have to go before the voters next fall as a party on the record of the 1915 legislature. We cannot shift the responsibility for any bad legislation upon Democrats or Progressives. We made a good start this year but it was very disappointing to have the governorship. Next year we must elect the whole ticket."

Boston, Nov. 17.—Ex-Mayor Thomas Thompson of New Bedford, one of the most prominent Progressives in southern Massachusetts, has written a letter to Chairman Edward A. Thurston of the Republican State Committee announcing his return to the Republican party. Mr. Thompson was the Progressive candidate for congress in the 16th district in 1912 and 1914.

Boston, Nov. 17.—William M. Wood, president of the American Woolen Co., Mayor J. W. Powell, president of the Fore River Co.; Congressman W. S. Greene, Allen T. Treadway, Calvin D. Paige, George H. Tinkham, M. F. Phelan, P. F. Taggart, James A. Sullivan, William H. Carter and Joseph Walsh will be the principal guests of the annual dinner of the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange to be held at Young's Hotel next Wednesday evening.

Boston, Nov. 17.—President Lowell, Fawcett, McKeljohn, Garfield and the heads of several other educational institutions will be the principal speakers at the meeting of the presidents of the New England colleges at the Twentieth Century Club next Saturday. The heads of sixteen colleges will attend the conference which extends over a period of two days. While here the various executives will be the guests of Boston University at the Copple Plaza.

Boston, Nov. 17.—Bishop Hamilton has been asked by the bishops of that church to write the episcopal address for the general conference of 1916. On account of the war Bishop Hamilton has been obliged to cancel his trip to the mission fields and he will now devote a large share of his time to the preparation of this address, which will circulate throughout the United States.

PLANNING FOR A BENEFIT

Plans are being made by the class of 1915, Portsmouth High school, to hold a senior benefit the latter part of December. The following committee has been appointed to make arrangements, Misses Barbara Flanagan, Caroline Weston and Messrs Garland Tucker and Charles Parsons.

SICK CHILDREN LOVE CASCARETS FOR THE BOWELS

Give "Candy Cathartic" for a bad cold, sour stomach, constipation.

Get a 10-cent box now.

Most of the ills of childhood are caused by a sour, disordered stomach, sluggish liver and constipated bowels. They catch cold easily, become cross, listless, irritable, feverish, restless, tongue coated, don't eat or sleep well and need a gentle cleansing of the bowels—but don't try to force a man-seating dose of oil into the little one's already sick stomach—it is cruel, needless and old-fashioned.

Any child will gladly take Cascarets Candy Cathartic which act gently—never gripe or produce the slightest uneasiness—though cleanse the little one's system, sweeten the stomach and put the liver and bowels in a pure, healthy condition.

Full directions for children and grown-ups in each package. Mothers can rest easy after giving this gentle, thorough laxative which costs only 10 cents a box at any drug store.

APPROVES 47 RECORDS

Committee of A. A. U. Meets in Advance of General Assembly of That Body—Friedrick Rubien to Succeed Late James E. Sullivan.

New York, Nov. 16.—Twenty-nine track and field records and eighteen swimming records were accepted by the record committee of the Amateur Athletic Union, which met at the Waldorf-Astoria yesterday. In passing upon the different marks made during the year the members declared that many other new figures had been made, but that they would not go down in the official book because they were not in standard events.

Hereafter the A. A. U. will accept marks for standard events such as are on championship or Olympic programmes. Others will be recognized at notable performances. By this means the officials hope to discourage marks and associations from putting freak events on their programmes and to encourage performances that will be on championship and Olympic programmes.

Of the record breakers, Howard Drew, the negro runner of the University of Southern California, is the star. He hung up five new marks, including the 100 yard dash, which he traced in 9.3-5 seconds, equalling the mark said to have been made by Dan Kelly several years ago.

F. Kelly, also of the University of Southern California, established four hurdle records, and J. J. Eller, the veteran sprinter and hurdler of the Irish-American A. C., established 4. Dave Caldwell of Cornell University set a record of the University of Pennsylvania and Homer Baker of the New York Athletic Club each hung up a mark in the classic middle distance events.

Conspectus by their absence are long distance records. During the year not a record at any distance more than half a mile was equaled or snatched. Several field event records were broken but none of them was in a classic.

DAILY WAR COST TO ENGLAND

London, Nov. 16.—The vast cost of the European war was realized in England today for the first time when Premier Asquith stated in the House of Commons that Great Britain alone was expending between $1,600,000 and $2,000,000 daily.

Today's session was devoted to discussion of the war. Some members are dissatisfied with the manner in which the government has been run, and numerous questions were asked of the cabinet ministers.

The first minister grilled was Reginald McKenna, who was asked what precautions had been taken by him as Home Secretary to prevent the operation of spies in England. In reply Mr. McKenna stated that 14,500 aliens had been interned in concentration camps (his number not including the prisoners taken in action). He admitted, however, that about 29,000 aliens had escaped thus far the government's drag net and were still at liberty.

First Lord of the Admiralty Churchill came in for a grilling because of British naval losses. The feeling in London is that thus far the honors of the sea have been with the Germans, and this has caused great feeling against Churchill. The defeat and the death of Admiral Cradock off the Chilean coast is attributed by many to the failure of the battleship Canopus to join the British squadron. It has since been rumored that the Canopus which was laid down in 1897 and was of 12,950 tons, had herself met with disaster.

Churchill said that he had every reason to believe that the Canopus was quite safe. He admitted that she had been ordered to join the British squadron on the southwest coast of South America.

EACH GERMAN HUT BUILT FOR DEFENCE.

Petrograd, Nov. 16.—From a report by Gen. Rennenkampf on his dash to Koenigsberg at the opening of the Russian campaign it is established that German preparations for possible war with Russia were just as numerous and thorough as those made for the invasion of Belgium and France.

The report stated that throughout all the border region of East Prussia there was not a building, not even a peasant's hut, that had not the side facing Russia constructed of solid masonry as a cover for rifle pits. This wall sometimes had rifle holes. Basements were so arranged that they could be almost instantly transformed into first-class trenches.

BALL PLAYER PRAISES THE GAME OF GOLF

Christy Matthews, the well-known ball player, has the following good word to say for the game of golf:

"To my mind golf is the ideal sport for the ordinary man who is in business and who wants to be freshened up. This game will keep even the seasoned athlete in condition throughout the winter and yet it is no such strain on the body as more violent exercise is bound to be when it is taken irregularly. Another advantage of golf is that it clears the mind of everything but golf while it is being played. No man can go over a course in any kind of form and think of anything else.

It is not an old man's game. It is true that the exertion attached to it is not exhausting, but it requires a man in pretty good shape to tramp over 18 or perhaps 36 holes of golf in a day. Golf is also a tonic for the nerves, since a steady nerve must be developed to play a good shot, especially a putt or an approach which requires accuracy.

Before I became fond of the game

I used to think that one of the faults to be found with it was that the players were always going over the course a second time when they got into the clubhouse, in other words that they never stopped talking about it. This is also true of poker, but I find that golf is a game well worth talking about. It must be carefully studied and a player must develop a form before he can become a fair performer.

However, one mistake that many beginners make is that they pay too much attention to the small details in form at first. The experiences of a beginner are still fresh in my mind. I am not sure I am entirely cured now. I was inclined to do this myself because there are certain cranks, on form in the game of golf as in every other game. A friend of mine started to play it on the public links near New York one summer and was getting along very well when one of these form cranks got hold of him and offered to play around. My friend told his ball up on the first tee and got his driver out of the bag.

"Stop! For heaven's sake stop," cried the crank, as the friend addressed his ball.

"What's the matter?" he asked anxiously.

The adviser had hollered so loud and so mournfully that the friend thought word of a death in the family had just reached him.

"In the first place," said the crank, "the thumb of your left hand is too far down on the club, and your right toe is too near the ball, and you should use an iron for the shot of this tee instead of your driver, and you are all wrong anyway."

Well, this friend of mine played a couple of holes with the crank, and then became so disgusted with himself and his work that he picked up his ball and left the golf links flat. He broke up his clubs and has never touched one since.

"I don't want to bother with a game that turns out nuts like that fellow," he told me afterwards. "I might get that way myself. You can't tell, I'd take no chances."

Don't let one of those cranks discourage you. My advice is to keep as far away as possible from exposing yourself to them when you are beginning and susceptible.

Perhaps a greater number of persons would get the benefits from golf if they had a more concrete idea of how to go about taking it up. The ordinary convert becomes one because some friend devoted to the game asks him out to the links with him. When he likes the taste and begins to play on public links if he is fortunate enough to live near any.

The average beginner will strain to become a good driver first. That, to my notion, is the wrong end at which to start, although I went at it myself from this direction. The explanation of this is probably that it feels so good to make a long drive. But a messed up drive can be recovered and made up for, while a missed putt or a bad approach has lost many a match. Therefore, I would recommend to the beginner that he practice the short game as much as possible. The approach and putting. If a man lives in the country or even in the suburbs of a great city, he can often do this at home by sinking a flower pot in his back yard and smoothing out the ground around it so that it has some of the conditions of the ordinary green. Then he can do his driving when he goes out to the links.

In concluding this little treatise for golf, I want to add that if any reader has never tried the game, I would suggest that he take it up. He will find that it does not consist of only "choking a pill over a ten here lot."

INFANTRY SAILS FOR CANAL ZONE.

The United States transport Buford, having on board the Fifth Infantry, which was going to the Panama Canal Zone as a part of the permanent force to man and form the supports of the canal's great fortifications, left New York for Colon late yesterday afternoon. There were 900 officers and men on the Buford, in addition to the families of the married officers.

The Twenty-Ninth Infantry is soon to leave New York to join the permanent garrison in the Canal Zone. In addition to a full brigade of infantry there will be sent to the Isthmus several batteries of field artillery and four troops of cavalry. These troops, numbering about 4000, are in addition to the large force of coast artillery men now manning the Panama fortifications under command of Colonel Adelbert Cronkhite. To command this force either Major General J. Franklin Bell or Brigadier General Robert K. Evans will be sent to Panama.

ENGLAND IN GRIP OF WINTER STORMS.

London, Nov. 16.—Severe winter weather has reached England in the past 24 hours. Snow a foot deep is reported from Blackwell county of Dorset. The mountain roads in North Wales are impassable owing to the blizzard. The rivers Dee, Severn and Doxy are over their banks and much damage to property has resulted.

Severe weather with the thermometer at 25 deg. is reported from the Lathlams, Lammemoor Hills, Scarborough, Doncaster and throughout the lake districts.

NO OPPOSITION TO DR. SHAW

Her Election as President of the National American Woman Suffrage Association Assured.

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 16.—The election of officers, an expected fight over the question of jurisdiction of the National body over state associations with regard to a proposed declaration of policy were some of the matters expected for today's session of the National American Woman Suffrage Association.

In addition the delegates planned to complete consideration of amendments to the constitution, decide on a budget for the coming year and pass on the report of the resolutions committee.

Dr. Anna Howard Shaw's reelection as president was a foregone conclusion, as there was no candidate in opposition. The contests for other officers of the National board were between Miss Jean Gordon and Mrs. Katherine D. McCormick for first vice president; Mrs. Anne Martin and Mrs. Susan W. Fitzgerald for recording secretary; and Miss Zona Gale and Mrs. Medill McCormick for second auditor.

Conferences among leaders of the administration and anti-administration elements among the delegates, which began last night, continued until long after midnight this morning.

TENDERED A FAREWELL RECEPTION.

Friends of W. G. Waterman Give Him A Rousing 62nd Off.

Mr. W. G. Waterman, a popular young navy man, who has made many friends here, and who has been ordered to the U. S. S. Florida was given a farewell reception on Monday evening at the home of Mr. James Coughlin on State street. In honor of the occasion the home was prettily decorated with ferns, cut flowers etc. During the evening there was a fine musical program rendered and supper consisting of salads and ice was served.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Van Buren, Mr. and Mrs. Quinn, Misses Mary, Josephine and Katherine Lucy, Alice Hartnett, Mary Hartnett, Beatrice and Nellie Henningson, Mary Fletcher, Sara Cochrane, Margaret Morgan, Katherine Ryan, Theresa Kelley, Mary White, Mary O'Rourke, Theresa Haney, Nellie and Nora Quirk, James Briggs, Charles Jones, James Paulman, Nance Boyd, R. S. Smith, H. A. Hoffman, P. A. Lawrence, Mortimer Cooper, Harold Smith, John Hunt and R. H. Graver.

STILL ALARM.

The auto chemical was called to Bridge street at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon where there was a fire in the tenement over the Raht and Hartford bottling plant. The house is occupied by Frank Dawson and family and the fire started from a pipe laid down on an upholstered chair by Mr. Dawson who was reading and smoking. He fell asleep and awoke almost suffocated by the smoke. The damage was slight.

First of all put one right over the fence and score for yours truly via Prince Albert tobacco that made three men smoke a pipe today where one smoked before, and put new notions into men who know what a real makin's cigarette can taste like!

Why, to fire up a jimmy pipe packed with P. A. or to pull on a P. A. makin's cigarette is just about, just about! Never was such tobacco, because no other tobacco can be made like

Sooner or later you'll go to this wonder-smoke as little apples grow on trees. Just can't help it, like! P. A. is so good and true, such chummy tobacco, that men just go happy about it. You get it into your system without losing any more time that you'll strike 18 kt. gold just as soon as you fire up a jimmy pipe or roll up a makin's cigarette with P. A.

Also, get these few remarks: Prince Albert is produced by a patented process that cuts out the bite and the parch. Prove that at the cost of a dime before you do the next thing!

Also, nail this: Just you be game enough to lay a dime against a tidy red tin—and cheer-up your smokappetite!

An Encouraging Prediction.

There is encouragement in the prediction of G. B. Caldwell of Chicago, president of the Investment Bankers' Association of America, which is that the country is on the verge of the greatest business boom in its history. He declares the bottom has been reached after a period of decline, that conditions are now growing better every day and that the future is full of promise.

Mr. Caldwell thus expressed himself when he reached Philadelphia this week to attend the annual convention of the association of which he is the head, and none will question that his position and standing in the business world entitle his views and opinions to respect.

Mr. Caldwell attributes most of the troubles that business has experienced in the last decade to agitation. This was begun, he says, by Roosevelt, continued by Taft, and seems to be winding up under Wilson. It may be a little early to assert that it is winding up, but that the frenzy of "regulation" is subsiding to some extent seems clear. This goes to prove that agitation is not good for business, as Mr. Caldwell emphatically asserts, and that the people have discovered that fact and are in a mood to welcome a change of program. This leading banker by no means condemns all that has been done toward the elimination of abuses in business. He says that many of the laws on the statute books are untried tools and that in numerous cases they may be found more beneficial than was at first anticipated.

No one outside the circles of crooked business objects to the proper regulation of corporate affairs in the interest of the public. The trouble has been that the work of regulation became a sort of craze. It has been conducted in a spirit akin to fanaticism, and until the novelty wore off and the harmful effects began to be felt the people were disposed to clap their hands and shout "Siboy!"

It is time to sober off in this field. Regulation that regulates, applied to matters that need regulating, is all right and there is no reason to believe that it is about to cease. But the public is tiring of the hounding of business as it has been conducted for some years past, as is clearly shown by the changed attitude toward the railroads, and is ready for a return to safety and sanity in regulating the business of the country.

After the flood in Indiana last year 175 persons in Logansport were treated with typhoid serum and not one of them has had an attack of the fever, although there are now 30 cases of the disease in the city. The work was in charge of the Cass County Medical Society, which has kept a careful record of results and is convinced that the serum justifies all the claims that have been made for it. The rest of the country can well afford to give heed to this record.

There is much enthusiasm in the road congress now in session at Atlanta, and there is reason to expect and believe that great good will come from its deliberations. In this, as in other fields, there are theorists and faddists, but there are also many very practical men of large experience in road building, and it is well that what they have learned should be made generally known, as will be done through the discussion at this gathering.

Governor Hodges of Kansas asks the farmers of his state to give one half of one per cent of their wheat and corn to Belgium as a Thanksgiving offering. This may sound like a small contribution, but when it is realized that it would mean 1,000,000 bushels of wheat and 250,000 bushels of corn it will be understood that it would mean much to the people who are the worst sufferers from the war.

A Connecticut man was so pleased by his election to the assembly that he hired a hall and served a dinner to the "hull durned town." His jubilation is accounted for by the fact that he is the first republican to be elected to the assembly from that town since 1888.

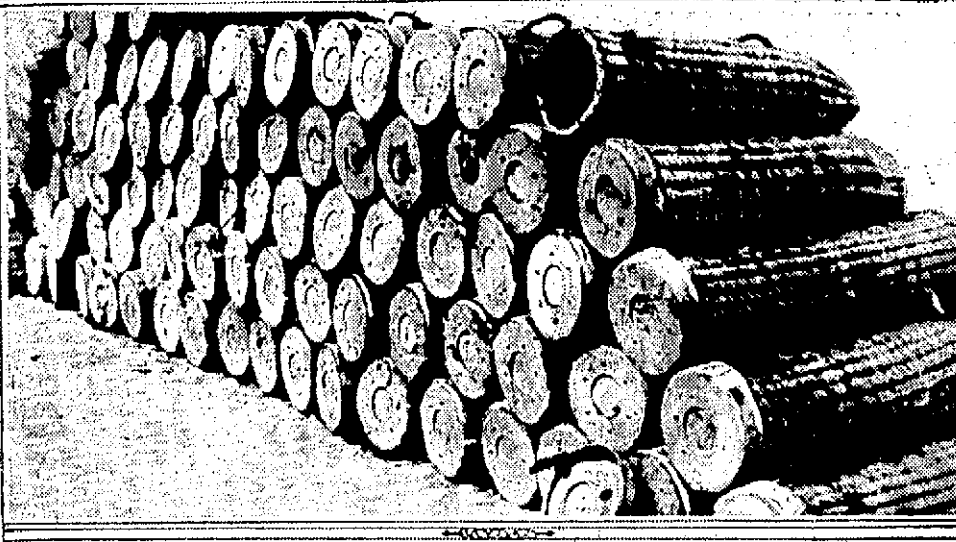

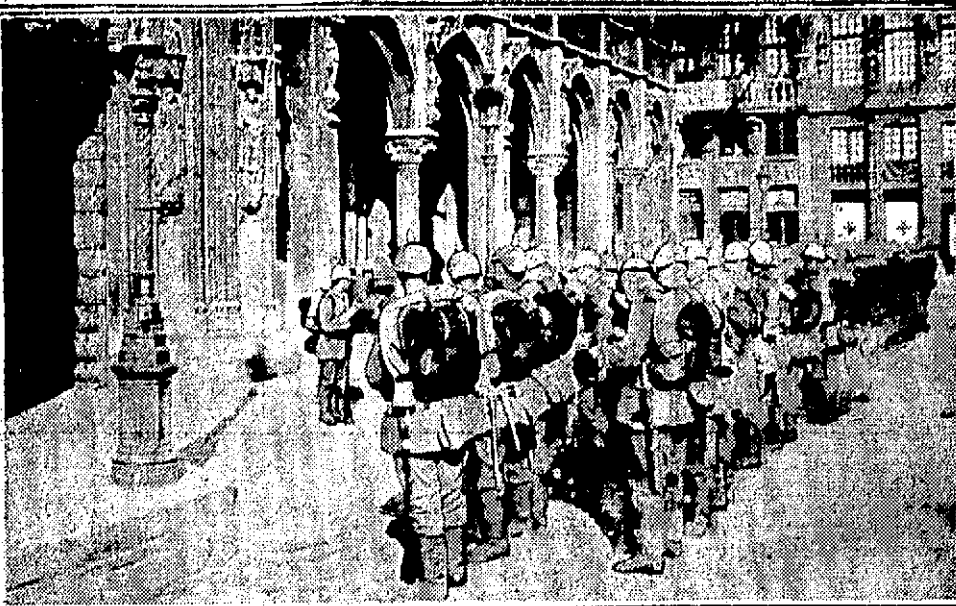

It is best not to worry overmuch about the foot and mouth disease in cattle. The authorities are busy and the trouble will probably soon blow over. Furthermore, the price of fish is very reasonable and nice pig pork is not bad eating at this time of the year.

It is reported that in some parts of Vermont they are shooting deer from automobiles. How different from the conditions that prevailed in our grandfathers' day. Such a story then would have meant the loss of the immortal soul.

Mexico is striving hard to stay in the limelight, but under the circumstances her performance can be regarded as nothing but a side-show.

A California cow has broken the world's record by producing more than 30,000 pounds of milk in a year. She should be exhibited at the coming exposition.

German Soldiers Lined Up Before Royal Palace In Brussels and Pile of "Busy Bertha" Shell Cases.

Photos copyright, 1914, by American Press Association.

These are pictures from the German side of the war in Belgium. One of them shows German soldiers lined up before the king's palace in Brussels. King Albert and his government had fled to Antwerp, and later the government was moved to Roulogne, France, while the king led his gallant army in attempting to hold what little of his kingdom was left to him. Germans naturally hope that sooner or later their soldiers will be drawn up like this before the houses of parliament in London. The other picture shows a pile of strong wicker cases used by the Germans to carry the shells for their sixteen and one-half inch "Busy Bertha" guns. These are "empties" and represent the number of shells used in the bombardment of Antwerp.

CREW MAROONED ON BLEAK ISLAND

Schooner Rawley Is Wrecked on Rocks After Fateful Cruise.

Eastport, Me., Nov. 16.—The Rockland, Me., schooner M. K. Rawley struck on Spruce Island, near the northern end of Campobello Island, during a fifty mile gale last night and pounded to pieces in less than an hour, according to word which reached here tonight.

The six men comprising her crew were completely exhausted when taken off Spruce Island by rescuers from Deer Island today. They had been unable to save anything from the wreck and spent the night and the greater part of the day without shelter in a cold driving rain.

Misfortune followed the Rawley almost from the time she left this port, light, for Minnsville, N. S., Nov. 11. Half way up the coast to Nova Scotia fire was discovered in the forward part of the ship. The crew managed to keep the flames under control and the Rawley put into St. John, N. B., where the flames were extinguished after the forward hold had been burned.

Abandoning his efforts to reach Minnsville, the Rawley's captain started back for this port to make repairs. During the heavy blow last night the schooner mistimed off Spruce Island and brought up on the rocks.

The heavy sea made quick work of her and the crew after a hard struggle managed to reach the bleak little island where there was no shelter from the driving rain storm and no means of building a fire. Their plight was discovered and when then weather moderated somewhat rescuers from Deer Island made a difficult landing and brought off all the crew without further mishap.

A BATTLE SONG

Sons of Britain, old in fame,
 Heirs of an immortal name,
 Strike, because the danger's near,
 Strike for all ye hold most dear;
 Plunged in combat, whelmed with strife,
 Strike for liberty and life!

Sons of Britain ye know well
 How the clarion trumpets swell
 When, like some tempestuous star,
 Flares the oriflame of war!
 If it summon you to strife
 Strike for liberty and life!

Will ye hear the fustian heel
 Crushing down your Commonwealth?
 Will ye not avenge the wrong
 Europe hath endured so long?
 Stay the tyranny and strife,
 Strike for liberty and life!

Hark! they mutter in their sleep,
 All those heroes of the deep—
 Nelson, Rodney, Hawkins, Drake,
 All who fought for Britain's sake,
 Fought and died that such as we Might strike for life and liberty!

Ye, who answer honor's call
 To strive, to conquer, or to fall—
 Ye who call yourselves the sons
 Of Marlboroughs and Wellingtons—
 Claim your heritage of strife,
 Strike for liberty and life!

Striving upwards to the light,
 Striving ever for the right,
 Sons of Britain, dauntless stand
 For God and King and Fatherland
 Join the battle, face the strife,
 Strike for liberty and life!

TOMBS MYSTERY IS CLEARED UP

Rival Gangs at Bottom of Stabbing in Prison Corridor.

New York, Nov. 16.—Warden Hanley of the Tombs prison, announced today that he had cleared up the mystery attendant upon the stabbing last Friday of Richard Harrison, an inmate who was seriously injured while standing in the line in the corridor waiting to be led to court for arraignment on a charge of grand larceny.

Hanley displayed an affidavit signed by John M. Moore, another prisoner, in which Moore said he crept down the line on his hands and knees and taking a penknife from his husband stabbed Harrison three times in the back. Moore swore that he and Harrison were members of a gang hostile to each other and that he took this means of settling an old grudge.

NEWINGTON.

Mr. William Brown has moved into the house owned by Miss Josephine Downing of Portsmouth.

Mr. Ralph Morrison has recovered from his recent illness and is now able to resume his work.

Dr. Lawrence Staples who was elected one of the dentists in the new Portsmouth Dental Infirmary, after graduating from Tufts Dental College last June, has been passing the summer at home. On Friday he returned to Boston to enter upon his duties. November 16th when the Portsmouth Infirmary will be opened to the public.

Mrs. Rosamond Packard was a visitor in Boston and vicinity last week.

Rev. Mr. Berkley attended the New England Congregationalist conference which was held in Boston last week.

The death of Mrs. Margaret Pickering occurred at her home near Greenland line on Sunday. She was 83 years of age and was the oldest person in town. Mrs. Pickering was a lady of most estimable qualities. Although a true lover of home and family her sympathy was ever with those who were sick or in sorrow. Her own sorrows she bore patiently and trustfully. For several years she had been in ill health but all suffering has been borne uncomplainingly. Her mind was active and she had always retained great interest in all the news of the day and in whatever concerned the good of the town. She leaves two sons to mourn her loss, Robert and Charles, who reside at home.

CURRENT OPINION

Fourth "R" Has Been Added to Historic Three of Education.

It was a wise pedagogue who said that a fourth "R" had been added to the historic three—meaning recreation. Our great-grandparents little grasped the truth of the old adage which they so often quoted, that "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," for they gave no heed to what play really meant or how under wise guidance it could be of inestimable benefit to the boy. They did not look upon play as a recuperative process, so that, after the whole body had been roused into healthy activity, the mind could return to its set mental processes with renewed vigor.

THEY RELEGATED PLAY TO THE SPARE HOURS AND LET THE CHILDREN PURSUE IT AS THEY WOULD, ONLY THEY DREW A DECIDED CONTRAST BETWEEN THE PLAY THAT WAS FIT FOR BOYS AND THAT WHICH WAS PROPER AND LADYLIKE FOR GIRLS. IT IS CHARACTERISTIC OF THE PERIOD THAT PROPER PLAY FOR BOYS ALWAYS INVOLVED PHYSICAL STRENGTH—NAMES, BALL, SWIMMING, RACING, JUMPING, ETC.—WHILE PROPER PLAY FOR GIRLS EMPHASIZED THE AESTHETIC VALUES, AS BATTLEDORE AND SHUTTLECOCK, GRACE-HOOPS, ETC., OR ELSE THEY PRACTICED FOR THE FUTURE AND PLAYED HOUSE OR MOTHERED THEIR DOLLS.

At the present time we are so accustomed to the ideal of physical education for girls that we forget how very modern is such a change. We have only to read the advertisements of the girls' schools to see how important a part this side of education now plays in the girl's life. Every up-to-date school has its fully equipped gymnasium. Many have swimming pools; all kinds of outdoor exercise are advocated; hockey, tennis and even football have their regular place in the daily routine.—By Emily Gardner Munro, Principal St. Margaret's School, Watertown, Conn.

MAGNIFICENT PAINTING OF CRAWFORD NOTCH

Purchased by Members of the New Hampshire Historical Society.

The magnificent painting of Crawford Notch has been purchased by members of the New Hampshire Historical Society, and is now hung in the Society's building in Concord. The Society and all the people of the state, especially those of Concord, are to be congratulated on the return to its native state of this, unquestionably the greatest New Hampshire picture ever painted.

The painting, of such great size, ten feet long and six feet high, as to be suitable only for a gallery or such a building as that in which it now hangs, has been placed over the bronze tablet on the landing of the main staircase, where it receives a perfect light from above, and has to an exact degree, the distance necessary for the greatest appreciation of its beauty.

The view is from the Notch road, looking north. In the extreme distance the great dome of Willard rises; above floats the rolling gray of mountain clouds, through which in places shines the sky of that wonderful blue seen only in these high altitudes. The tints of morning light touch the haze that lies across the distance, and spread their glow in splendor over Willard and Mount Tom, whose angular peak is launched, keen and sharp into the sky on the left. Further to the left is the steep side of Mount Willey, frowning dark on the spot where the avalanche fell to the destruction of the Welley family. To the right is a portion of Webster, while striking from the wooded middle distance the Saco river shines curves, and glides into the forest again.

The coloring is of great brilliancy. A first and sudden view of the picture imposes a sense of awe and breathlessness, and the eye wanders in admiration from the autumn colorings of the forest, along the silver Saco, up the cliffs of Willard and Webster, through the mountain air, flavored by the forest, and to feel a sense of lightness and freedom like the great eagle which one delightfully discovers swinging its way over the cloud-draped tip of Mount Tom.

Thomas Hill, the artist, was born in Birmingham, England, in 1828, and died in Raymond, California, in 1909, nearly 80 years old. He held high rank in the school of American landscape painters which included Bierstadt, Church, Morgan, and Kensett. Most of his pictures are of western scenery, as the Yosemite Valley, Grand Canyon of the Sierras, Grand Canyon of the Colorado, Yellowstone Canyon and the Muir Glacier. The first of these now hangs in the Crocker Art Gallery in Sacramento.

This picture of Crawford Notch was painted in 1872, and was displayed at the Centennial Exposition in Philadelphia in 1876, in competition with Bierstadt, and Church. Shortly afterwards it was purchased by Mr. Hamilton, the noted organ maker, and taken to his house in Winchester, Mass., where it has since remained.

The picture was purchased from Mr. Thomas Gilman, Stanton of Winchester, Mass., who, being himself a native of New Hampshire and a member of the Historical Society, recognized New Hampshire's predominant interest and moral claim, and though with the deep feeling which follows the loss of an old dear friend, consented to its return to this state at a large sacrifice from its real value, and from its actual cost to him. Such liberality and public spirit is worthy of marked recognition.

The handsome frame, carved by most expert workmen, and finished in Italian gold leaf, satiny toned and finished, was designed and made by Mr. Herman D. Murphy of the Carver-Rohand studio, Copley Hall, Boston.

It is well in these days of great public interest in forestry and the preservation of our natural beauties and in Crawford Notch in particular as a public reservation, purchased by the state on account of its especial grandeur, that this picture of the Notch as it was before the inroads of commerce, should be brought back to its native state, and should be deposited in a place of perfect safety for all time, where it may serve as a reminder to the people of their great public duty in caring for the natural beauties of the state, which so often they look upon but do not see.

CHOOSING A PIANO

Pianos individually differ in touch and tone, but pianos as a class are highly standardized as to quality for price. No person of judgment buys a nondescript instrument. Rather selection is made from a name that stands for high ideals of manufacture. If the thought of a piano is in your mind let us give this caution. Choose carefully—and if you are not familiar with the points of leading instruments and the best dealers, let the advertising columns of this newspaper help you. PEN SKETCHES FROM "THE MEN AROUND THE KAISER," BY FREDERIC WILLIAM WILE

The Professor in Politics, MANS DELBRUCK: "The German people," he said, "since attaining unity as a great nation, have gradually reached the determination not to permit the world to be divided up among other powers, but to demand their portion of it."

The Master of Essen, KRUPP VON SOHLEN: In Germany and far-away Spain five thousand miners are disemboweling ore from Krupp iron mines, to be shipped, in the case of the foreign product, in Krupp steamers, which unload their burden at Krupp docks in Rotterdam, there to be transhipped down the Rhine, to emerge some day as armour, Dreadnaughts, siege guns and murderous shells, "Made in Germany." The Krupp pay-roll totals $25,000,000 a year.

Organizer and Strategist, VON DER GOLTZ: "The material development is taking place on so rapid a scale that it must cause misgivings, for it increases the sense of security and lust for enjoyment. Both have invariably proved perilous to a nation. Only so long as the cultivation of the warlike spirit keeps pace with general cultured development has a nation been able to maintain its place in history."

Commander of the Air, COUNT ZEPPELIN: "The greatest German of the Twentieth Century." He lives unobtrusively at Stuttgart when not superintending affairs at Friedrichshafen, frequently takes the helm of new ships on trial flights, and, like "Bobs," he does not advertise.

Sailor and Sportsman, PRINCE HENRY OF PRUSSIA: A man of initiative and fearless independence, he has on more than one occasion had lively disagreements with the Kaiser on naval affairs. But on the big essential idea of the "bitter need" of Teuton sea power, they, like the rest of modern Germany, are indissolubly one.

That this advice is applicable to this city as well as Massachusetts.

That a double Greek wedding took place in this city on Sunday afternoon and was some event.

That a priest from Manchester was to marry the contracting parties, but the automobile that was conveying him to this city, refused to work when leaving was reached, and word was sent to this city that he would be unable to reach here.

That the interested parties immediately got busy and another priest was summoned from Haverhill, Mass., who arrived here in due season for the ceremony.

That some changes are scheduled to take place in the hours of the men employed as janitors at the Custom house with the advent of the new month.

That much enthusiasm is manifested among the members of the new Driving Club.

That a sensation in which a well known young man is involved is not many days away.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Thomas Entwistle

Mrs. Elvira Scott (Dyer) Entwistle, wife of Hon. Thomas Entwistle, passed away at 4:18 Monday afternoon at her home No. 286 Cabot street, after a very brief illness. She was a native of this city and was married Oct. 13, 1859 by the late Rev. A. J. Patterson and two years later her husband God Speed when he departed for the war.

She was a life long and regular attendant at St. John's Episcopal church and always took an active interest in the work. She was a whole-hearted and generous woman and did many charitable acts. Her husband and family have the sympathy of a large circle of friends.

She leaves besides her husband, three daughters, Mrs. Oliver J. Goldsmith, Mrs. Walter S. Tufts, and Miss Maude I. Entwistle; also one son, William T. Entwistle, all of this city and five grandchildren, and two great grand children.

The funeral services will be held from her home, No. 286 Cabot street, Thursday, Nov. 19, at two o'clock. Friends invited.

Timothy J. Hennessey

Timothy J. Hennessey died on Monday evening at his home on Hancock street, aged 49 years. He was a native of this city and he leaves two brothers

EPISCOPAL CONVENTION

Annual Meeting of the Diocese Being Held in Concord With St. Paul's Parish.

The annual convention of the Episcopal diocese of New Hampshire opened in the Parish house at Concord this Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock with a conference which continued until 1 o'clock. The subjects were:

"The Church's Duty and Opportunity for service with regard to the children of the State."

"Religious Education in the Sunday school and the Home." This was discussed by Rev. Mr. Hazard of Manchester for the city and Rev. W. Stanley Emery of Concord for the country.

"The Care of Feeble Minded and Deficient Children" was discussed by Mrs. Frank S. Streeter and others.

At 4 p. m., the business session of the convention was opened and in the evening there will be the regular missionary meeting.

On Wednesday morning there will be Holy Communion and the Bishop's address, to be followed by business and adjournment.

St. Paul's parish will entertain the convention at lunch on Wednesday to enable those present to meet Bishop and Mrs. Parker.

Smartness is the keynote of our display of winter overcoats. Smart colorings as well as models. The range of models is very wide and includes form-fitting garments as well as the big roomy ones that suggest the acme of comfort and carry a whole load of style. Our "Glen-garry" model is one of the latter style. This coat is made of imported fabric—genuine English tweed; is cravat-netted, making it an absolutely water-proof garment in addition to its other points of excellence. This is one of our several exclusive models. $18.50, $20.00, $22.50 and $25.00. Others from $12.00 upwards.

METROPOLITAN OPERA COMPANY

Metropolitan Opera House
Giulio Gatti-Casazza, General Manager
New York, March 23, 1914.

Gentlemen:—
Since November, 1911, this Company has been using, exclusively, the Hardman Pianos. There have been eighteen of these instruments in constant use in the dressing rooms of the artists, in the orchestra, and elsewhere for practical work, besides a large number used by the artists in their private apartments, and it gives me much pleasure to express on behalf of this Company and also the artists taking part in the performances, the thorough satisfaction we all feel in these instruments.
The fine tone quality, fullness and splendid durability of the Hardman Pianos are fully recognized by every one here, and it is very evident that they must be exceedingly well built to stand the usage to which they are subjected, owing to the extremely heavy demands which we make upon them. We shall start upon the coming season of 1914-1915 with complete assurance in regard to the unqualified satisfaction that the Hardman Pianos will give to us, and to our artists. Believe me, Very truly yours,
JOHN BROWN,
Business Comptroller.
